State Decision Was That Act

Unconstitutional

(BULLETIN)
International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The first direct test of the right of the federal government, through NRA codes, to regulate wages and hours of labor, reached the supreme court today.

The record in the case in which the government is appealing from a decision of Federal Judge Grubb, of Birmingham, Ala., holding the recovery act and the lumber code unconstitutional, was received by the court.

Most Important Case

The department of justice will make its formal motion for review early in January.

The case arose when William Elbert Belcher was charged with violating NRA and the lumber code by working men more than 40 hours a week and failing to pay prescribed wages.

While there are two other NRA cases pending in the supreme court, the Belcher case is regarded by many as the most important test case to be appealed.

U. S. WILL NOT ALTER STAND ON FREEDOM OF SEAS

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Reports that the United States was contemplating abandonment of its traditional stand for freedom of the seas was described by President Roosevelt today as newspaper talk.

He said the objective of the proposed new declaration of the policy on neutrality was to assure that the United States would be able to maintain neutrality in the event other nations became involved in war.

He pointed out it always has been difficult to obtain a position which would assure neutrality, and that this is the purpose of the present study being made by the state department.

Some Idea Of Citizens' Sentiment On Use Of Old Post Office Building

What to do with the old postoffice building on North Mercer street is a question that is being discussed at the present time. A number of suggestions have been made but the only two suggestions that seem to merit consideration are the use of the old building either as a free public library or as a city hall.

City council has already gone on record as wanting the building for municipal purposes. Likewise the board of the free public library has expressed its desire to get the building for library purposes. What the man in the street is thinking may be one thing or the other. Below are found paragraph interviews with citizens in which they express themselves as to what they think should be done with the building.

Rev. Philip C. Pearson, rector of Trinity church: "The building should be used as a library. We need a new municipal building but not so much as we need a library. Particularly at times like these proper library facilities are very necessary and I think the old postoffice should be converted into a library."

J. L. Matthews, manager of the New Castle Water company: "I believe the old postoffice would make an admirable library and I am much in favor of its use for that purpose."

C. L. Shira, an engineer: "The old postoffice seems to me to be best suited for library purposes."

James A. Rugh, insurance agent: "It's a question. We certainly need a new city hall but we also need a new library. If I had to decide between the two I would think a library would be the thing."

M. Loy Patterson, insurance agent: "No question in my mind. It should be used for a library."

William Francis, automobile agent: "We need both a new library and a new city building. Why not turn the old postoffice into a library and then try and locate a new city building site? We have a beautiful new

Storms Are Sweeping East From Mid-West

(International News Service)

Rain and snow falling throughout Penns., W. Va. today gave indication of approaching weather disturbances sweeping eastward from the middle west.

While temperatures in the state were somewhat higher, mingled snow and rain brought uncomfortable forerunners of impending gales and caused hazardous traffic conditions in all sections.

Central Pennsylvania reported the lowest temperatures, with snow falling in many areas. A minimum of 28 degrees was reported at Harrisburg, accompanied by snow. Eastern and western districts, where rain was falling, recorded higher temperatures.

Storm areas of the country included the lake regions, particularly at Cleveland and Detroit, while the center of the weather disturbances was over Indiana, and moving toward the east.

In the Pittsburgh area, one person was killed and several others were injured in a series of accidents attributed to ice-coated streets. Highway traffic was badly crippled as an early morning snow turned to rain and froze a thin sheet of ice over the district.

Monday, the first day the new post office functioned in its new home, was a light day, but yesterday brought a greater number of mailers to the office. It was thought that this afternoon will bring more business if the weather improves.

Postmaster Richard A. Steen today announced that a few more extras have been added to the regular force. Regular parcel post delivery equipment has been ample so far to meet the demands of the office.

"The old mail early story should still be told," the postmaster commented, "because those who get their packages and cards in the mails ahead of the rush days will have the satisfaction of knowing their mail was delivered in plenty of time. We will be able to handle things here in fine shape, but delays may come if parcels wait until the last minute."

Departments of the new office still were making necessary adjustments today.

None of the upstairs offices of the federal building have yet been occupied.

Mrs. Harbison is suffering from shock, and the full extent of her injuries had not been determined this morning. The condition of neither man was serious, however, it was stated at the hospital today.

CENSORSHIP IN WAR TIME MAY BE AIM

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Promptly on the heels of charges by counsel for Bruno Hauptmann that the transfer of two federal agents to posts in the west precluded the possibility of a fair trial for the Lindbergh case suspect in Flemington, N. J., next month, came statements today from both New York and federal officials.

Francis X. Faye, chief of the department of justice in New York, said that neither Agent Thomas Sisk nor Agent Enos Sandberg had been transferred because of connections with the Lindbergh case, as charged by Edward J. Reilly, chief of Hauptmann's defense.

Faye promised both men would be available for Hauptmann's trial.

The second statement came from New York detectives who denied categorically that Hauptmann had been beaten, as also was charged by Reilly.

Holiday Rush At Post Office Slow Starting

ELEVENTH HOUR RUSH IS LIKELY

Postal Authorities Are Ready To Handle Any
Volume Of Business

New Castle's postal officials today anticipated the coming of "rush" days although today—four mailing days before the Christmas holiday itself—there were still no definite signs to indicate that the post office mail business of this season will be as heavy as that handled a year ago.

Postmaster Richard A. Steen today said mailing was "not so heavy" and it was apparent that inclement weather probably was influencing patrons to delay the depositing of parcels.

Monday, the first day the new post office functioned in its new home, was a light day, but yesterday brought a greater number of mailers to the office. It was thought that this afternoon will bring more business if the weather improves.

BUSINESS LEADERS FAVOR DOLE PLAN

No Immediate Change Sought

Believe Dole Should Be Complement To Unemployment Insurance

N. R. A. EXTENSION PLAN BAFFLES

By GEORGE H. KENNEDY

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., Dec. 19.—Owen D. Young, John J. Raskob and other "best minds" of American business, now in session here, favor, in principle at least, the Dole instead of work relief for the unemployed American worker.

This was revealed today following a session of the committee on social security.

According to a spokesman for the committee, however, the business men have no thought of asking the government to change immediately from work to direct relief or to cancel any of the present PWA program. Rather, it was explained, they feel the Dole should be regarded as a complement to unemployment insurance, which, in the reported opinion of the majority of the business men here, is certain to be adopted in the future.

The drafting committee of the meeting agreed almost unanimously that direct relief was necessary in the immediate future, but the question of what to recommend to the president about the extension of NRA was not so easily disposed of.

It wasn't until the wee hours of this morning that the committee finally reached some sort of an agreement on this ticklish question. Details of the recommendation to the White House were not immediately available, but it was plain that Owen D. Young had been compelled to utilize all the skill as a conciliator with which he reconciled the bitterly opposed viewpoints of France, England and Italy on the subject of war reparations, before the divergent industrial and commercial elements involved could be brought together.

Concerning the sanctioning of the Dole instead of work relief, the social security committee spokesman told International News Service the members felt that when a workman goes off the role of those drawing unemployment insurance benefits there should be no expensive efforts to make work for him.

all the accomplishments reached at the Washington conference in 1922.

Limiting the size and number of battleships and aircraft carriers and establishing the now famous 5-5-3 ratio—that is, five ships for the United States and Great Britain to three for Japan, the treaty is held by this government to be the most forward step ever taken in the cause of naval disarmament.

U. S. MADE SACRIFICE

The United States, it was recalled, sacrificed 34 costly vessels in order to make the treaty possible.

It is therefore no wonder, officials said, that this government views with no little dissatisfaction Japan's intention to scrap it.

Meanwhile, the State Department made preparations to notify the other signatories, Great Britain, France and Italy, of Japan's action as soon as Japanese Ambassador Hiroshi Saito hands Secretary of State Hull the formal notice of termination.

Under the terms of the treaty, Japan must communicate notice of termination in writing to this government.

Emperor To Approve

TOKIO, Dec. 19.—Emperor Hirohito was expected today to approve Japan's notification of her intention to abrogate the Washington Naval Treaty.

His Privy Council this morning adopted a draft of the annulment notice.

It was understood that the original intention of announcing the de-nunciation at Washington this week has been abandoned in favor of December 27.

A cabinet meeting tomorrow will consider terms of the notice that the treaty, with its provision of 5-5-3 ratio, will automatically expire at the end of 1936.

BUDGET WORK TO BE RESUMED

Mayor And Council Must Complete Work On Appropriations Soon

Spirit of friendliness apparently reigned in city hall official circles today and it is probable that when Finance Director Albert Hoyland summons councilmen for another conclave a third attempt to fix 1935 appropriations will be made.

The first and second sessions resulted in no final amounts being settled upon because the solons had differences of opinion regarding what was and was not needed for 1935.

The second meeting was practically ended when Mayor Mayne left the city clerk's office. Council continued compiling tentative figures but no final action was taken.

In the past years budget making always required several meetings. The task is more difficult than the average person imagines according to observers and the needs and lack of needs of different councilmen are generally expressed.

However, councilmen and the mayor realize that the budget ordinance and the tax levy ordinance must be completed so that the city can embark on its new fiscal year on the first Monday of January.

With this in mind it is believed that when Finance Director Hoyland summons his colleagues they will gather around the table and out of the conference arrange for the appropriations and tax levy for next year.

SOME IDEA OF LOCAL CITIZENS' SENTIMENT OF OLD POST OFFICE

postoffice, we have several other splendid public buildings but our library and city building look like poor relations. All the argument in the world won't do anything. Let's get busy and get both a new library and a new city building.

A. H. Gonick, dry cleaner: "The old postoffice would make an admirable library site. While we need a new city building, we need the library even more. Let's make the old postoffice into a library and then a new city building."

Snapper Anderson, taxi driver: "Why should we make a library out of the postoffice? The board paid a small fortune for the present building they have just a few years ago. Make a city hall out of the old postoffice building and move the city offices out of the present quarters."

Thomas McMahon, restaurateur: "A library by all means is my suggestion for the old postoffice. New Castle should have adequate quarters for its library and it doesn't have them now."

Bert Davis, hotel clerk: "It has been suggested that the old postoffice be used as a museum. I know of many articles of interest that would be presented if such a thing was done. However, if it isn't used for a museum, I haven't much choice between a library and a city hall."

M. Loy Boyd, undertaker: "The old postoffice building seems aptly suited to library use and I believe it should be used for this."

Rev. C. W. Johnston, pastor Central Christian church: "Of course we need a new city hall, but we need an adequate library much more. That's what the building should be used for."

KIDDIES MEET SANTA
IN HIGHLAND CHURCH

It was a question which had the biggest thrill Tuesday evening at the party in the Highland U. P. church, whether it was the members of the Baldwin Bible class, who were hostesses, or whether it was the children of the Margaret Henry Home, the guests, at a Christmas party.

Early in the evening more than fifty children from the home were brought in cars to the church, where the little eyes opened and the faces beamed as they beheld the towering tree in the front of the assembly room, which was a glittering with icicles and many colored lights.

Mrs. Harold McCulloch conducted a brief session of business after which the program chairman for the evening, Mrs. Josephine Kison, introduced Miss Margaret Henry, Mrs. Madge Place, and Mrs. Lida Green of the Margaret Henry Home, after which Mrs. Green presented the children in a colorful program of dolls come to life with clever songs, exercises, and dances by the children in group and solo numbers. The hit of the evening was little Sammy Sacco, aged 4, who sang a German song.

In addition to the program by the home children, Billy Batten played some accordion numbers; Dick Johns, accompanied by his father, R. E. Johns, sang "Silent Night" and Tommy McFate, accompanied by his mother, played two xylophone selections.

The program closed, the children were invited to the dining room of the church and their eyes widened and their hands clapped as they viewed the long tables spread for the refreshments. One long table was arranged for the children; this was centered with a silver tree in the midst of a mirror lake, about which silver deer frolicked; at one end was Santa's sleigh, piled high with toys, drawn by two miniature reindeer and the other end was decorated with a glittering elephant tree; over all glowed the lights from red tapers. At each child's place was a package containing candy and a Santa Claus. The tables arranged for the members of the class were also decorated in the Yule tide suggestions.

After Mrs. Ada Jackson and her committee had served refreshments, the climax of the evening for the kiddies came when Santa Claus, played by Mrs. Daniel Maddocks, came forth from the red brick chimney and looking about, welcomed the children, then turned to the Christmas tree, under which was piled packages of various shapes and sizes, each labeled with a child's name; as these were given the boys and girls by Santa Claus, each was given a stocking containing apples, oranges, pop-corn balls, nuts and candy.

After all the excitement of the evening was over and each had opened the package and viewed what Santa brought, a tired, but happy group was returned to the Home.

KENSINGTON MEMBERS HAVE SEASONS PARTY

In observance of the Yuletide season, members of the 1919 Kensington were entertained at a delightful evening party Tuesday, in the home of Mrs. E. G. Hoover, Winter avenue.

A period of informal pastimes, including radio music, chat, etc., was followed by the exchange of lovely Christmas gifts. This took place about a beautifully decorated tree.

Mrs. William Marker was a special guest of the members.

At the chosen hour, the hostess, assisted by her daughters, the Misses Dorothy and Eloise, served a tasty repast. The small tables were cleverly decorated for this feature.

On January 1, Mrs. David Valensi of Lincoln avenue will entertain.

Tau Delta Party.

Mrs. Vernetta Anderson, Hillcrest avenue, received a group of "kids" in her home Tuesday evening, who later turned out to be the members of the Tau Delta class of the Epworth Methodist church.

With Mrs. Margaret Kammerer and Gladys Erwin as associate hostesses, there were many merry making games played and the "kids" exchanged toys and when they tired of these they were all gathered up and will be used in the Christmas baskets to be sent to needy families. There was much capering around the Christmas tree and the Yuletide decorations added much to the enjoyment of the evening.

The occasion was featured with a varied program of games and contests. Those winning prizes included Mrs. Mabel Phillips, Mrs. Clara Remley, Mrs. Gula Hess and Miss Ella Bailey.

UNCLE SAM "CRACKS DOWN"

THE Home Owner's Loan Corporation, as well as the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, has taken disillusioning action in the cases of many borrowers who have been serene in the belief that Uncle Sam was a benevolent old codger who would not make a fuss over a few losses.

Chairman Fahey says that 70 per cent of the home loan payments are being regularly made and another 10 per cent being paid after minor delays. While still others are in default because of lack of funds, many instances of defaulter are traceable to an unwillingness to pay.

Something of this sort was anticipated when the corporation began to function and the determination was formed at that time that any deliberate effort to "beat" the government would be dealt with in a stern manner. The corporation is now acting in accordance with this policy.

Happily, the proportion of borrowers who have apparently determined to evade their obligations to the government is small, a circumstance which reflects creditably upon the rigid honesty of the great mass of the American people. In taking action against the remainder, the government is following a judicious and an equitable policy.

It is important that borrowers of government funds, whether in large or small amounts, shall realize that these grants are loans, not gifts, and that their status is the same as that of banking or commercial debts. The government should tolerate only an honest relationship in its dealings with those whom it aids.

UNEMPLOYED YOUTH

Of all the emergency relief undertakings of the federal government the one that has met with the widest approval has been the Civilian Conservation Corps movement. All over the country, wherever these camps are located, may be found ocular proof of the service rendered in land and forest clearance, soil erosion and fire prevention, road and bridge construction and other like work. Most of these projects have afforded immediate benefits and in years to come it is a reasonable expectation that the money expended in reforestation, which has been outstanding, will be returned many fold.

The record of accomplishments lends pertinency to the report of Director Fehner to the president that he could employ on "good construction work" twice the number of young men now in the camps.

A turn of six months in the rugged outdoor life of the CCC would be of incalculable good for many idle and discouraged youths in better equipping them to seek civilian positions. That is backed by the experience of the 110,000 who have withdrawn from the camps to take permanent jobs.

BILBO STRANGELY SILENT IN CAPITAL

Washington, which thirsts for novelty and loves excitement, has been looking forward eagerly to the advent of Theodore E. Bilbo, the Senator-elect from Mississippi, who promised that he would "raise more hell than Huey Long." Now that he has arrived it finds him "modest, shy and retiring." He has kept in seclusion and, despite his red necktie with its diamond horseshoe stickpin, he is quiet and talks in a dignified manner.

Those who hoped for a senate minstrel show, with Huey Long and Bilbo as the end men, may be in for a disappointment. What has changed the stormy petrel of Mississippi? There are two possible answers. One is that Senator Pat Harrison, his conservative colleague, has been giving him some good advice, and the other is that Bilbo dislikes the Kingfish and doesn't want to be tied up to him.

But give the new senator time. He may break out when least expected. It does not seem reasonable that statesmen with a red necktie and a diamond horseshoe stickpin can remain silent—or safe—indefinitely.

WHITE HOUSE IMPROVEMENTS

When President Roosevelt returned from Warm Springs, he came back to a White House considerably altered during his absence. The old and much amended executive mansion had been transformed into a "new" home and office.

In a sense, however, the building is not as "new" as might be expected. It has been changed so repeatedly since its erection that the alterations of the present administration can hardly be considered that extensive.

The White House was completed in 1801. It was a very different sort of building than that in which President Roosevelt lives, having been enlarged and modernized as the needs necessitated such action through the course of years.

During all the time, however, the fundamental architectural style of the building has remained. It has not suffered at the hands of modern builders, but has—in fact—been improved and made more beautiful without changing its basic lines and features.

American people are proud of the beauty, character and comforts of the executive mansion. They are interested in its history and associations. They are glad that it has been improved through the years, but that it still retains the characteristics of the original structure. They agree with President Theodore Roosevelt:

"The White House is the property of the nation and so far as is compatible with living therein it shall be kept as it originally was, for the same reason that we keep Mount Vernon as it originally was."

Lord Astor says his fame is all in his wife's name. Evidently, then, there is a Lord Astor.

Fortunately, economists never have to be right in order to retain their status as economists.

Time-saving suggestion: If you let correspondence accumulate long enough, it doesn't seem to need answering.

Another need of the times is a dummy cigaret you can reach for absent-mindedly when you don't really want a smoke.

Including the license plates and the gasoline in the tank, there are now some cars on the highways that represent a total investment of $32.

After all, the spinach-fed youngsters of America are fortunate. Consider the plight of the children of Germany, who are obliged to read the story of Hitler's life.

The World At A Glance
Olson Of Minnesota.
Torch Bearer Of New Ideas.
Plans To Run For Senate Next?

Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th street

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer
NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Governor Floyd B. Olson, Farmer-Labor governor of Minnesota, has been proclaimed the torch bearer of a new social order.

That, of course, remains to be seen.

Governor Olson has not had the publicity of a Senator Huey Long or a Father Coughlin. He works from a different base. They arouse the emotional, to obtain their respective ends. Governor Olson proceeds from the practical.

Governor Olson has not gotten as far, yet, but his is the more lasting path.

Thus Washington and New York and the industrial centers pay more attention to him than to the others. He, after all, will be a political organization behind him in 1940. And political organizations still are nine-tenths of the battle.

Governor Olson may become so potent west of the Mississippi river that (who knows?) either the Republican or the Democratic party may adopt him.

The Republicans took Fiorello H. La Guardia for mayor of New York.

PLANKS
Governor Olson has a few planks that are very popular in the west, and, transmuted to the east, probably would become equally popular there.

Some of these planks which are of interest outside of Minnesota are:

Public ownership of mines, water power, transportation, communication, packing plants, factories and all public utilities.

Exemption of marketing cooperatives from certain kinds of taxation.

State insurance against unemployment and old age, workmen's compensation, encouraging co-operative insurance companies to take over life, health and accident, now privately managed.

Extending conservation commission's powers to have authority over all water power rights and the use of all land.

Acquisition of tax-delinquent cut-over land for reforestation purposes.

Stepping up of state income and inheritance tax law until tax on estates over $10,000 would be almost confiscatory.

Favoring soldier bonus payment.

Elimination of tax-exempt securities both state and national.

Encouraging consumer co-operatives by exempting them from certain forms of taxation.

Establishment of a state central bank of deposit and rediscount, but barred from loaning to avoid political entanglements.

A federal monopoly on the manufacture of munitions.

PLANS
Governor Olson plans to run for the senate in 1936, to replace Senator Schall, severe critic of the Roosevelt administration.

The administration will desire Schall defeated, but may balk at backing Olson. Olson will win anyway.

BACKGROUND
Governor Olson's father was a Norwegian, his mother was Swedish. He has lived in a St. Paul slum, but, above all, he has been a broad-minded lawyer and executive, acting slowly and deliberately, with little emotion.

In his early forties, his prime years are ahead of him.

If he goes into the White House it will be on a platform placing human rights above property rights and aiming at a co-operative commonwealth.

It seems impossible—but after looking back over the last six years nothing seems impossible.

TODAY Is The Day

By CLARK KINNAIRD Copyright 1934 Central Press

WEDNESDAY, DEC. 19

The World War Day-By-Day—Dec. 19, 1914—Two of the 100 mines laid by the Kolberg off England's east coast on the 16th were found by gunboats and sweepers were called out by radio. In half an hour a mine-sweeping force brought 18 more to the surface.

The bombardment by Admiral von Hipper's squadron of battle cruisers of three towns on the Norfolk coast three days before, had been staged to cover this second big mine-laying operation of the Kolberg. Damage to the town was small, however, compared to the eventual toll of the Kolberg mines which the trawlers didn't find. Within a few months they were to sink seven British and seven neutral steamers, plus minesweepers and trawlers, and a yacht.

The mines were just one more item in the relentless campaign of German and Britain to starve each other out.

Various vital supplies already were running short in Germany. A few weeks before Germany was so desperately short of copper for munition purposes that her military men feared they would have to sue for peace. The munition factories could only carry on by the response obtained from an appeal to the patriotism of every householder to hand over all copper ornaments and utensils in his possession. These pulled Germany through until 12,000 tons of copper came from America via Sweden.

You're Wrong If You Believe—That the federal government owns or did own all the land in the District of Columbia.

When the area now comprising the district was ceded by Maryland, jurisdiction over the territory passed, but the ownership of the land and property did not, for the land was not part of the public domain of Maryland. Consequently the federal government always had to buy from the private owners any land required for buildings or other purposes.

Also you're wrong if you believe—that General Grant really was a hard drinker.

That coffee always has been a beverage. It hasn't.

Originally it was food. The berries were crushed and eaten in the form of a paste. They were first used for beverage purposes in making a wine!

PERSONAL "FREEDOM" UNCAPTURED BY THEORETICAL FANCIES

In the heat of complex living today, a great many theories are being expounded as fact.

There are many theories that have been tried and found wanting.

There are just as many untried theories.

There are some theories that take a great many years to work out in a manner practical enough to make a reliable rule.

Study history, study it with an open mind.

You want to be free to live your life.

Is it any worse for you to be hurt because others want to live their lives freely, than it is for you to destroy others' happiness so that you can, as you say, "live your life" as you wish?

When you say to your father or our mother that you want to "live your life" without interference from them, perhaps you forget that if it were not for them you would not be alive.

They cared for you when you were helpless, nursed you back to health when you were ill, and have clothed you as well as their pocketbooks would allow.

But you are ready to throw all their advice to the winds because you "want to be free."

But no one is absolutely free, you will find each plan brings responsibilities, and often the laws you scorn bring more freedom in living up to them.

CHRISTMAS AT HOME

What for Christmas shall we do? Shall we search for pleasures new Shall we try the day to fill With some strange, exquisite thrill? No, I answer, rather stay Round the hearth this Christmas Day.

Let us stretch the table out; Seat the family round about, Young and old and with a din Bring the Christmas pudding in. Let us try once more to know All the joys of long ago.

Let us set the day apart To be gay and blithe of heart Let the home with laughter shake Once again for old times' sake. Let's set every eye aglow With a bough of mistletoe.

We were happiest of all Oft at Christmas you recall All together then were we, One united family. And what merriment we had Back with mother and with dad!

Let us have a Christmas tree Like the one that used to be And a Santa Claus to call Gifts for old-time, one and all. In the old-time tender way Let us

Spangle Day To Be Observed

Little Red Emblems Will Be Sold Saturday For Anti-Tuberculosis Society

SCHOOL GIRLS TO SELL SPANGLES

Saturday, Dec. 22, will be observed as spangle day by the Lawrence County Anti-Tuberculosis Society, when a group of girls will be on the streets of the business district, selling the little red double barrelled crosses as a means of adding to the funds raised by the sale of Christmas seals to be used in combating the spread of tuberculosis.

Mrs. Prudence Sankey Matthews will have charge of the distribution of the spangles for the society and will supervise the school girls who will take part in the effort.

It is hoped that the public will respond generously, as the need for funds is greater than ever this year. An early checkup has shown that the receipts from the sale of Christmas seals will probably be less than in past years, and it is hoped to make up this deficiency by the sale of these spangles.

Permission to distribute the spangles was given by Mayor Charles B. Mayne yesterday.

Petitions Out For Union Sewer Job

Hopes that the No. 2 sewer district of Union township will grasp its opportunity to have the RWD lay a sanitary sewer for it, grew brighter today. Petitions, upon which residents are obligating themselves to pay their share of the cost of materials, are now in circulation.

The project, a major one for Union township, would bring a sanitary sewer system to that district along the new three-lane roadway and connecting streets.

H. W. Sontum, Paul M. Pattison and R. H. Thompson are carrying petitions.

EAGLE PATROL ON HIKE

The Eagle patrol of troop 2 enjoyed a hiking party to McConnell's Mills last Saturday, with Patrol Leader Valentine Kish and Committeeman Mont Rodgers in charge.

Upon arriving at their destination, the group endeavored to cook their dinner, and after partaking of the appetizing menu, some of the scouts passed tests. This marked a most successful occasion.

The boys hiked home late, making it an all day event.

Judge Chambers Is Affirmed In Mattocks Case

Former Secretary Of Ellwood
City School Board Loses
Out In Appeal

In an opinion handed down by the superior court at Philadelphia late yesterday, the decision of Judge James A. Chambers in the case of the commonwealth against Ray K. Mattocks of Ellwood City was affirmed. Mattocks, a former secretary of the school board of Ellwood City, was convicted last March of embezzeling school funds amounting to $2,029.

An application was made for a new trial, and following arguments on the motion Judge Chambers refused it and sentenced Mattocks to 18 months in the Allegheny county workhouse.

Mattocks gave bail and took an appeal to the superior court. In arguing his case his counsel claimed the indictment upon which he was tried, because of its many counts, violated an act of Assembly which limits indictments for embezzlement to three distinct acts. He asserted the indictment should have been quashed or the state required to choose upon which three allegations it would proceed to try the defendant.

The commonwealth's counsel maintained the defendant, by his alleged dilatory action in first pleading nolle contendere and then withdrawing his plea, should not be allowed to take advantage of alleged defects in an indictment, which were merely formal.

The decision means that Mattocks will have to serve his sentence to the workhouse.

Christmas Fellowship Event To Draw Crowd; Good Program Ready

Members of the Young Men's Christian Association and their friends today looked forward to the Christmas fellowship party which the committee of twelve will sponsor for it on Thursday night.

Heading arrangements for the evening is a group of three members of the committee of twelve, William Winters, chairman; Dario Baptiste and Jack Boyles. Other committee workers will help them.

At 7:30 one of the humorous features of the evening's program, a "nutty basketball tournament," will open in the gym. Make-up teams will oppose others in a hilarious competition which promises to give spectators a show worth watching. With the tournament at an end, the group will adjourn to the main lobby of the building to hear a program of music and to listen to a Christmas message which Dr. G. S. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian church, will deliver.

A lunch, served by the association, will close the affair.

The Christmas rally will be the second party to be conducted under the committee of twelve's auspices. Final plans were completed when it met last night.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p.m. December 18, five arrests on charges as follows: Suspicion, 1; drunkenness, 3, and violating traffic regulation, 2.

Council appropriated $3,500 in 1934 for fire hydrants and hose and when the budget was set tentatively for 1935, the same sum was set. In 1934 there was expended all but $100 of the appropriation and D. O. Davies, safety director, in discussing hydrants, said that 15 fire hydrants must be replaced. Many of these have been in the ground for 45 years, he declared.

Another matter that will have to be taken up at the next meeting of the budget makers is the appropriation term "donations to fire companies." Nine hundred dollars were appropriated in 1934, but the money was not actually given to the companies, it was stated. During the last session a question as to whether or not the city had to pay over the money arose. It was decided to let the sum stand as set, but in the meantime City Solicitor White would be asked as to whether the appropriation was provided for by city ordinance or state law. If a city ordinance provides for the donations, the ordinance may be repealed, councilmen indicated.

There was appropriated for playgrounds during 1934 the sum of $750. However, no playground activities were carried on as none of the civic groups in the city would take over the responsibility. During the informal meeting of budget makers Monday the sum was cut from $750 to $250, which obviously shows there is no indication of the kiddies having their activities supervised at playgrounds this year.

One of the questions that arises at this time and which council probably has not given much thought to is supervision of Cunningham Park activities. It is now being laid out for athletic purposes and when completed it will be one of the most mammoth playgrounds in part of Western Pennsylvania. Numerous athletic contests will be staged simultaneously. Its vastness will probably require a supervisor. Four thousand and two hundred dollars have been tentatively appropriated for the care and improvement of the park.

parks. According to reports Cunningham Park will be ready for sports next summer.

In discussing the reported loss in municipal operation of Cascade Park a citizen said that while the loss may have incurred the fact remains that very few cities which have recreation centers operate parks for revenue deriving purposes. The gentleman pointed to Mill Creek Park in Youngstown, and said that it was a recreation center.

The salaries tentatively listed for the higher-ups in the department of public affairs as arranged recently, show: Mayor, $3,000; solicitor, $3,000; police chief, $1,800; radio chairman, $300; secretary to mayor, $1,000, and extra clerical hire in police and legal bureaus, $720.

James Steiner, sergeant of police, who got a corncock pipe for a Christmas present last Christmas, would like a different kind of pipe this Christmas. City employees drew their last pay prior to Christmas yesterday, about $10,500 being paid them by taxpayers.

Municipal golf course from the first Monday in January to date resulted in a loss of $2,672.89, according to statistics secured from City Controller Wimer today. The expenses to December 18, were $5,498.19 and bills to date $94.20, respectively which shows a deficit of $2,672.89. There were improvements made there during the summer, the city having brought the material and the RWD having provided the labor. It was anticipated that Cascade Park municipal operation would break about even but according to statistics garnered from the controller's books there is a deficit to December 18, of $1,624.75. According to figures, the expenses to date were $7,868.59 and bills to date $115.38.

There was appropriated for playgrounds during 1934 the sum of $750. However, no playground activities were carried on as none of the civic groups in the city would take over the responsibility. During the informal meeting of budget makers Monday the sum was cut from $750 to $250, which obviously shows there is no indication of the kiddies having their activities supervised at playgrounds this year.

One of the questions that arises at this time and which council probably has not given much thought to is supervision of Cunningham Park activities. It is now being laid out for athletic purposes and when completed it will be one of the most mammoth playgrounds in part of Western Pennsylvania. Numerous athletic contests will be staged simultaneously. Its vastness will probably require a supervisor. Four thousand and two hundred dollars have been tentatively appropriated for the care and improvement of the park.

A speech delivered by Dr. R. F. Galbreath in his quiet, sincere manner was greatly appreciated by the assembled guests. An added collegiate touch was the appearance of the Westminster College male quartet, who, under the supervision of Prof. Alan B. Davis, harmonized nicely in the singing of several popular airs.

WELFARE MEETING

The New Wilmington Welfare Association met Tuesday evening in the fire house. The organization decided to fill Christmas baskets and disburse them to needy families in and around the community, in an effort to spread a bit of cheer in an otherwise uneventful day for some families. It was also moved and passed at this meeting that the board of control of New Wilmington community chest appoint new members for the Welfare Association, the new members to take office in January. Members of the present board consist of A. W. Thompson, J. J. Francis, Rev. J. R. Neale, C. B. White, Mrs. William McCormick, Mrs. Mary Hutchinson, Mrs. Maud Comstock and Mrs. Royce Moore.

RESCUE 16 SEAMEN FROM DISABLED SHIP

Dramatic Sea
Rescue Is Seen

Special I. N. S. Reporter
Aboard Liner Going To Rescue Of Sinking
Ship

SHIP IS DERELICT;
ALL OF CREW SAFE

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Miss Sheila Graham, famous Anglo-American writer, returning to America aboard the S. S. Europa after reporting the wedding in London of the Duke of Kent, for International News Service, ran squarely into one of the year's most dramatic sea stories. Following is her thrilling wireless account of the rescue of 16 seamen and officers of the tramp steamer Sisto by the liner New York.)

By SHEILAH GRAHAM
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1934, by International News Service)
ABOARD THE S. S. EUROPA,
AT SEA, Dec. 19.—Somewhere off the coast of Ireland a derelict was sinking today. Her crew, 16 Vikings of the Norwegian Tramp Steamer Sisto, who had clung a night and day in frozen peril while four liners plowed to their aid, were safe aboard the German ship New York, bound for Cherbourg, after one of the most heroic rescues in recent naval history.

Scores of women in evening gowns and men in dinner jackets arose from groaning tables, and watched the rescue in the glare of humming searchlights, sheltered by lee decks, while volunteers from the New York, mindful of the death of 17
in a similar venture last week, rowed through sizzling snow and piercing wind to uphold the sea's greatest tradition.

Hear S. O. S. Call
The Sisto's S. O. S. reached the Europe around 1 p. m., ship's time, yesterday, when most of us, homeward bound for Christmas, were at luncheon. We felt a shudder run through the express liner as her engines, running at half speed, forced her around into the teeth of the gale.

Making only ten knots through the mountainous seas, it took the Europe until 9:30 at night to go the 140 miles out of her route. Where we picked up the lights of the Mobil oil, New York and Aurora, already on the scene, and the single tiny light of the Sisto.

The British Tanker Mobil oil, the first to arrive, had been there nearly a full day, pumping her whole supply of oil to the windward of the founding vessel, hoping to quiet the troubled waters.

The great Europa maneuvered until its nearly 50,000 tons of bulk were to windward of the wallowing little 1120-ton freighter, lessening to some extent the wind and waves.

Powerful searchlights from all the rescue ships speared shafts of light onto the oiled sea and swept the decks of the Sisto.

Crew Clings To Rails

I could see the white-faced Norwegian crew clinging to rails and rigging, waiting and hoping, while tremendous waves smashed her broadsides. Now a moving light would show her splintered lifeboats, now her crumpled bridge. She was rudderless, propellerless, completely at the mercy of the waves.

Before the Europa arrived, a wireless "conference" between the Sisto and the other boats had decided that rescue must not wait until dawn.

Lights trained on the New York showed a crew climb into a life-boat, the davits swung out, and the tiny craft lowered rhythmically until,
just as an angry wave lashed for it, it was dropped into the water.

Knocked about by 40 and 50-foot waves, the lifeboat slowly narrowed the distance between her and the Sisto, until almost alongside. Then for more than an hour her gallant crew pulled their oars and swung the tiller to hold tight for a moment—just long enough to remove one man—without being dashed like an eggshell against the steel sides of the Sisto.

Men Rescued

One by one the frozen men stepped down a dangling rope ladder through the sleet and leaped into the lifeboat. Time and again the rowers risked their lives in fighting their way alongside again.

At last the sixteenth and last man went into the lifeboat. He was the captain of the Sisto.

Through it all the scores of watchers aboard the Europa and New York were gripped by the sense of suspense. There was still no sound as the lifeboat began making its way back to the New York.

Once the spotlight following the lifeboat lost the tiny craft. A wave that must have been more than 60 feet from trough to crest hid her, and the spectators gasped in dismay, fearing she was engulfed. Another second and the shell was seen once more riding high.

Again there was the perilous final task of lifting the rescue boat aboard the New York. Watchers held their breath. Then it was all over in a minute. A cheer went up.
The rescuers and the rescued were safe aboard.

THE J. R. FREW CO.

If a man had ninety thousand dollars a year, you wouldn't shudder to hear him suggest spending one hundred and five thousand in twenty or thirty years to help his family.

In this nation, with a good times income of ninety billions, it isn't so awful to talk about spending one hundred and five billions in twenty or thirty years, for useful work, not for bloody war.

Three cheers for Mr. Ickes and his vision. Spending one hundred and five billions on wages and materials ought to break any depression, especially if the people hired would really work.

A SUAVE statesman, Eiji Amau, of Japan's foreign office, hopes and trusts that nothing will come of the United States plan to build a canal across Nicaragua, because the Panama Canal is plenty for us, able to handle all commercial traffic, and a Nicaraguan canal would have strategic value only."

To be frank with Mr. Amau, it is for its strategic value largely that this country wants a Nicaraguan canal. Friendly neighbors in Europe or Asia, becoming suddenly less friendly, might blow up the locks of the Panama Canal. Then our boats would have to go all around the tip end of South America.

A Nicaraguan canal would be a SEA LEVEL canal, no locks to blow up.

Mr. Amau also thinks that a Nicaraguan canal would seem like the United States still enforcing its Caribbean policy in Central America.
Possibly, but that is our policy, not Japan's.

Japan recently carried out interesting plans by annexing gigantic territory and millions of population in Manchukuo. That is Japan's policy; she lives out there. No really sensible American objects to it.

Objecting would produce no results, and foreign objections to American plans for canals will produce no results.

ADVICE to small countries: Don't start an argument with Mussolini, for when it is over he will hand you a bill.

He argued with Greece, when he first began dictating about trouble on the Greek border, and collected something like fifty million francs from Greece. Europe looked on and watched him do it.

RECENTLY, Ethiopia, which runs along the frontier of Italy's Somaliland, complained to the League of Nations that Mussolini's men had behaved badly. The League suggested arbitration. Mussolini said:

"No arbitration. Italy wants from Ethiopia an apology, a salute to the Italian flag. Punish the culprits that attacked Italians, and cash indemnity to Italian native soldiers killed, wounded, or with their feelings hurt."

And Mussolini will probably get what he asks. "He is that way."

AN NRA report says the United States comes fourth among nations in the march toward recovery, and is gratified. There was a time when fourth place did not particularly gratify Americans, but "small mercies" thankfully received.

Interesting in the report is the statement that countries still on the gold basis, France, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Switzerland, show least evidence of progress.

WILLIAM J. CAMERON, who speaks with authority, says:

"I believe in higher wages than ever. We haven't seen any REAL wages yet."

The prophecy as to higher wages will come true. When this country was younger, only one mechanic in the United States, a New England carpenter, was able to earn as much as one dollar a day all the year round. See Bancroft.

And a President of the United States once complained publicly that you could no longer hire a good man in the United States for less than one hundred dollars a year.

Today's wages would have surprised those old gentlemen. Future wages would surprise today's workers.

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSE-VELT an absolute teetotaler, but, unlike some others, one who does not enforce her views or habits upon her guests, says that her Christmas party for young men and women, in the White House, will include "beer and fruit punch."

At many parties, in the prohibition era, where punch only was officially served, many young people were very drunk, but NOT on fruit punch.

Mrs. Roosevelt sets a good example free from hypocrisy. It is not beer that makes young people drunk.

NEW YORK'S public utilities have been taxed $14,000,000. Gas and other utility companies say:

"We should like to get that back in increased rates, please."

City officials are horrified. By whom did they think the taxes would be paid? Don't they know that all taxes are passed on to that gentle beast of burden, the consumer?"

FRANCE WILL buy airplanes made in the United States. Gen.
Denain, head of the air ministry, says
so. Intelligent France wants airplanes in case war should come, and has no objection to manufacturers making a "war profit," if they can make the right sort of plane.

Song in play "Merry Christmas."

Do You Want To Be Santa Claus?

Here's Chance To Prove There Is One, To Young Boy

Is there anyone in New Castle who would like to prove to a six year old chap that there is a Santa Claus? If so he can provide a three wheel bicycle (one that is second hand, been used and can be repaired before Christmas) and the chap's faith in Santa Claus will be kept firm.

Sometime ago his father left and it was the mother who has been keeping her brood of three together. She took them for a walk recently and they leaned their noses against shop windows and saw sleeping dolls, prancing dogs, bicycles, Pop-Eye, skates and lot of other Christmas articles.

They went inside the door and to the little six year old chap Santa Claus walked and asking: "What do you want, my little man?" to which the lad replied: "a three wheel bike." Joyful Santa, not knowing the mother's financial condition, replied: "You'll get it sure on Christmas."

The mother has tried to tell the lad that "perhaps Santa will be out of bikes by the time he gets here." She doesn't tell him the truth—that would be killing off all the joy of coming Christmas for them all, hence the request—

"Is there a three wheel bike in your cellar or garret and which one of your children can use?" If there is, call Minnie McRibben, police matron. She will make arrangements to give it a coat of Christmas paint and if it needs repairing perhaps she'll arrange for that too and when Christmas mornin' come you will have proved that there is a Santa Claus after all.

The City of New Castle has started a proceeding to sell property in which Harry Rosenblum, The John Keast estate and Edith Pryor, are interested to satisfy municipal liens and taxes amounting to $1,064. The property fronts 100 feet on Delaware avenue and extends along Garfield. The first municipal lien dates back to 1907 and the taxes are delinquent since 1921. The sale is somewhat unusual as there is attached a court order on the writ directing that it arise as a result of an automobile accident.

"The biggest glass of beer in the city," appears on a window of an east side restaurant. On the door is another sign by Constable Frank C. Conner, showing that the place has been closed on a landlord's warrant.

An inference might be that it doesn't pay to give the biggest glass of beer in the city.

Trustees of the mothers' assistance fund have started to investigate applicants for old age pensions. In order to do this they must visit the homes of the applicants to verify the statements which have been made on the applications for pensions. The list, which numbers over 1300 is being taken up in the order in which the applications have been paid. No pensions have yet been paid.

County commissioners have been having considerable trouble securing sufficient water of the right quality to use in the boilers at the county home. The water is secured from deep wells, but on account of minerals, it has a tendency to corrode the pipes. There is a spring a little east of the home that is now being explored for the purpose of ascertaining if sufficient water of the right quality could be secured from it for the boilers.

So far there is nothing in the way of decorations at the court house that would indicate that Christmas is on the way. There has been some talk of a Christmas tree for the front porch or the down stairs corridor, but the rumblings merely bear the old adage that "talk is cheap." Pretty soon there will be a rush of applicants for marriage licenses and it might cheer them in the hazardous undertaking to see an evergreen or a few branches of Holly.

The Tri-Hy-Y and Hi-Y clubs of Enon school, jointly sponsored a church service Sunday evening held in the Presbyterian church. The occasion was presided over by Mary Knepp and Charles Martin, presidents of the organizations. Those taking part included: entire group in opening song; prayer, Rev. Koontz; responsive reading, Charles Linn; scripture reading, Goldie Coblenz; prayers by club members; hymn, entire group; talks, Wilda Dulan, Robert Wallace, William Foster, Betty Dice and Ralph Veon. Selections were rendered by a mixed quartette, comprising, Charles Riddle, Earl Watt, Bell Scott and Olive Moore with Mildred Young, accompanist. Rev. Koontz closed the program.

HIGH SCHOOL PARTY

The Enon High school party will be held Friday evening December 21 at the Community Hall. Christmas carols will be sung by the school following the entertainment.

On Court House Hill

Ward Cleaveland and Carol Cleveland have filed a summons in trespass against Ira E. White. Statement of claim has not yet been filed but it is understood that the case arises as a result of an automobile accident.

"The biggest glass of beer in the city," appears on a window of an east side restaurant. On the door is another sign by Constable Frank C. Conner, showing that the place has been closed on a landlord's warrant. An inference might be that it doesn't pay to give the biggest glass of beer in the city.

Employees in the prothonotary's office are making out naturalization papers for those who recently passed final examinations for papers, a list of whom was recently published in The News. The papers must contain a personal description of the applicants, together with their signatures and place of residence. Two copies are made. One is given to the applicant and the other is sent to Pittsburgh to be filed at the naturalization department. Applications will be able to get their papers this week.

While the Home Owners Loan Corporation has announced that no new applications for loans will be considered, the order does not affect the loans made by the Federal Farm loan bank or the land bank, commissioner, according to Attorney W. Stevenson, who is counsel for these organizations here. Mr. Stevenson says that he has been receiving many inquiries of late touching on this point. Applicants for farm loans can get them in the usual way. The loans are made on a conservative basis and usually run from 35 to 40 per cent of the appraised value of farms. Appraisements are made by men sent here for that purpose. Payments are coming in good on loans that have been made, according to Mr. Stevenson, which would indicate that farmers are enjoying a fair measure of prosperity.

Volunteers Have Big Feed Tuesday

Fire Station Scene Of "Stag" Dinner Affair On Tuesday Evening

Twenty volunteer firemen volunteered to lift the weight from a heavily laden table in the Seventh Ward fire department Tuesday night. A short time after 6:30 o'clock, the men had done away with tons of sauer kraut, barrels of wieners and a couple of gondola-fulls of spare ribs and mashed potatoes. When they arose from the table there wasn't a spare rib to spare, not an appetite unsatisfied.

A special guest of the occasion was Assistant Fire Chief James E. Thomas. The regular duty men of Engine Company No. 7, all except Captain F. F. Gorley, who was ill, were also guests of the volunteers. These included Blaine Bumbaugh, R. G. Clark, Patsy Audino and E. T. McKee.

Responsible for the success of the evening was Chairman Clare Thomas and his committee assistants, Bruce Franklin and Paul Walter. The committee passes the credit to Mrs. Myra Anderson, who graciously cooked the repast, and to the two unknown young men who came to the fire department and offered some lovely "squeeze band" and guitar music.

Old Time Resident Of This City Dies In Colorado At Age Of 90 Years

Death closed the long career of Eli L. Evans of Windsor, Colo., on Friday afternoon, December 7, according to word received here by Alderman and Mrs. H. G. Coates of North Liberty street. Mr. Evans was in his 90th year and had been in poor health for some time.

Although he had been away from here many years Mr. Evans will be remembered by New Castle's old residents. He was born in New Brighton, Pa., April 24, 1845. When a young man he took up the vocation of operating a canal boat on the old Erie canal; later going into the business of making fire clay for the blast furnaces of New Castle and vicinity.

In 1874 when Mr. Evans was 29 years old he heeded the urge to "go west". He took up farming in Colorado and was actively engaged in that occupation until about nine years ago.

At New Castle Mr. Evans married Angelina Coates Evans on October 21, 1886. Mrs. Evans, who was the sister of Alderman Coates, died in 1905.

Funeral services were conducted on December 9 and interment was made in Lakeside cemetery at Windsor.

Five sons and two daughters survive. Mr. Evans made several visits to New Castle. He made the last visit about two years ago.

Recent Rumors

that have been circulated relative to some large motor car manufacturer, presumably a unit of General Motors, introducing another line of low priced sixes in the near future has simmered down to the Pontiac Motor Co.

So many inquiries have poured into the offices of the company asking for a confirmation, that H. J. Klingler, president and general manager, finally has admitted their truth.

"The cat seems to be pretty well out of the bag," said Mr. Klingler, "and there doesn't seem to be any good reason for further denials. However, I don't know why it is, but it has been almost impossible to keep our plans a secret in regard to this new line of sixes.

It simply goes to show the widespread interest that is taken in the low price field and particularly the quality, six cylinder field.

"Most of the good things that have been heard about this new six are true. The time is so short until we make our public announcement, and the job of answering all of these inquiries so great, that it seems to be the same and economic thing to confirm the rumors."

FATL ACCIDENTS
HARRISBURG, Dec. 19.—Drivers who carelessly slowed down or stopped their cars have been responsible for 853 accidents in which at least twenty five persons have been killed this year. Reports to the Division of Safety show that in addition to the twenty five lives lost, 612 persons were injured.

HARRISBURG, Dec. 19.—Warning that only three weeks remain during which 1934 license plates can be used, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles urges all motorists to obtain 1935 tags as soon as possible. H. Richard Stickel, director of the bureau, pointed out that new plates, obtained now, legally may be attached to motor vehicles on and after December 15.

In addition to gaining the use of the new tags on Saturday, owners who renew their registrations at once will avoid the avalanche of applications which annually descends upon the bureau during the last week or so of December.

New De Soto Cars To Be Shown Soon

Morgan Returns From Dealers Meeting Where New Models Were On View

The 1935 De Soto cars will attract more attention and excite more comment than the present aerodynamic models, Hubert Morgan of the Morgan-Burrows Motor Co., De Soto dealers in New Castle and Ellwood City, said today.

Mr. Morgan recently returned from a meeting of De Soto dealers and executives and obtained his first glimpse of the newest models. He was enthusiastic about prospects for the coming year.

"De Soto's really got a surprise for the public this year," he said. "The company introduced an aerodynamic car last year that attracted more attention than any new car has for years...and this year De Soto's got even more to talk about."

Mr. Morgan said that the date for the presentation of the car to the public has not been set definitely as yet, but he believes that he will be able to show it within a short time. He hinted at new style refinements embodied in the Airflow and stated that in 1935, De Soto would again be a strong contender in the medium low price field.

"They've done something to engines that no one believed possible a year ago," he said. "The new De Soto engine will be one of the most powerful—and economical—ever placed in a stock car."

There has been a great deal of speculation about what De Soto would do in 1935. Conflicting reports said De Soto would introduce more advanced streamlined models; that De Soto planned new cars not as streamlined as the present cars.

"As in previous years, the eyes of the motor world are trained on De Soto, waiting for an answer to the question—What will the streamlined cars look like?"

GERMANY

In some parts of Germany the people burn a Yule-log. Sometimes this is a huge log that will last through the three day's festivities, and sometimes it is one so small that the family sit before it until it is entirely consumed. Sometimes a part of the log is suspended from the ceiling of the room and each person present blows at it hoping to make a spark fall on some watching face. Others carry a piece of the log to bed with them to protect them from lightning.

Renewed Outbreak Of Liquidation Brings Losses To Market

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—A renewed outbreak of liquidation in the utilities depressed the stock market today and brought losses running to more than a point.

The new selling in the utilities was apparently due to the belief that the president would support proposed construction of a municipal power plant in New York City. Consolidated Gas dipped more than a point to touch a new bear market low. Commonwealth & Southern, United Gas Improvement, and Public Service of N. J. also were heavily unsettled.

Railroad shares were sluggish and moderately lower with New York Central, Atchison and other trading favorites losing fractionally.

National Biscuit showed renewed weakness as it dipped more than half a point. Other food shares including Standard Brand also were weak.

Liquor stocks held their own. Ollis were mixed with Texas Corp. higher while Socony-Vacuum dipped a fraction.

Commodities were slightly easier imparting an easier tone to the farm implement and mail order stocks.

Golden Wedding Event Recalls Much History Of W.B. Hamill Family

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Hamill of North Beaver township, a mile east of Petersburg, celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary Tuesday. A large number of relatives, friends and neighbors called to extend congratulations and talk over old times.

The Hamills live on the same farm settled by Mr. Hamill's grandfather, John, in 1801. Mr. Hamill's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Hamill, celebrated their golden wedding at this homestead in 1888. Mrs. Wm. B. Hamill was Margaret Elizabeth Hayes, whose grandfather Judge Hayes presided over Beaver county court in the early part of the last century.

Mr. Hamill was born on the farm December 14, 1854 and has resided there all his life, except fifteen years in the mill business in Pittsburgh, also a three business trip in 1900 through California, Utah, Colorado, Nebraska and Arkansas and a winter in Florida in 1917. While in Pittsburgh he was active in church and lodge circles. He is a member of Westfield Presbyterian church; Odd Fellows Park Lodge No. 916, of which he is Past Noble Grand; member of uniformed ranks Allegheny Encampment No. 101; Lorena Lodge No. 198 Knights of Pythias, in which he went through the chairs; Allegheny Council No. 228 of the National Union; Triumph Lodge No. 101 Protected Home Circle, and Meridian Lodge 411 F. & A. M. of Enon Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Hamill have three children, James Edward, Youngstown; a daughter Mary, at home, and a son, Colonel Thomas Hamill who now manages the homestead.

Mr. Hamill is reluctant to talk about his family, but from authentic sources we glean that the Smith Hamill family history goes back to the Crusaders, with a coat of arms of a palm tree with the motto "In Hoo Signo Vincis". This was won by a Crusader ancestor who, by reason of his height was able to sight

Mad Chase All Fault Of Tooth, Alibi To Police

(International News Service)

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 19.—It was all because a tooth, S. B. Haugen, 28, explained when he was captured by patrolmen after a wild ten-mile chase through the countryside.

Haugen was first noticed by two policemen in a patrol car driving his auto in an extremely erratic fashion through crowded city streets.

They immediately gave chase, and over curbs, through red lights, past over stop signs and usually on the left side of the streets went Haugen with the cap in hot pursuit.

The officers fired 10 shots at the fleeing car, and finally, after two tires had been shot to ribbons, the car wheeled into a ditch outside the over the wheel.

But it was all because of a tooth, Haugen told the police judge. He said that he had a tooth extracted that afternoon and that the drug administered by the dentist as a pain-killer accounted for his behavior.

He was held for trial.

Tells Speed Need To Control Fires

Outcome Of Blaze Depends On First Five Minute, Marshal States

HARRISBURG, Dec. 19.—W. F. Traeger, fire marshal of the Pennsylvania State Police, bureau of fire protection, said today that in fire fighting circles it is a well known fact that the outcome of a fire is often decided in the first five minutes after its discovery.

It is for this reason, Traeger said, that the general public should realize the importance of turning in promptly all fire alarms, particular attention being paid, if by telephone, that the correct number and street location of the fire is given.

The fire marshal pointed out that for alarms turned in from an alarm box, which merely indicates in most alarm systems the vicinity of the fire, the person turning in the alarm should remain at the box until the arrival of the firemen that they may be directed to the exact location. This facilitates work of the firemen in cases where fire is not easily discernible from the box location.

Herbert E. Metcalf, San Francisco spent three years developing an unusual variety of petunias through the use of X-rays on their seeds.
